Homeschooler

How I survived being homeschooled, many don't know,
Apparently, I'm quite different, never once went with the flow.
I know everything, I dare you, call me slow!

My mom was the teacher,
My dad is the preacher,
And my smartness is my very best feature.

The way I was taught is pretty absurd,
I have never heard or uttered a swear word.
On top of that, I'm a socially awkward nerd.

I am grammatically correct in everything I say,
I don't say 'hang out' instead I say play,
My vocabulary range is quite passe.

I'm always early to wake-up,
God forbid I wear make-up,
And boys are gross, who wants to date, it'll only end in break-up.

I loved school, never wanted it to end!
A rule is something you will never see me bend.
And tell a lie? I hate to even pretend!

I took my brother to prom,
I know every Bible psalm,
And I have never ever fought with my mom.

My clothes are quite modest, dresses past the knees.
And I'll excel over everyone at the spelling bees!
My home life is the oddest, we make our own cheese.

I always listen to my dad, he's never incorrect!
My mom is my best friend, no disrespect,
and I never fight with my sister, we're perfect.

I have a lot of siblings, more than eleven,

The youngest one that's graduated is only seven.
And at least ten times a day, we pray to our God in heaven.

I'm sheltered from everything in this scary world,
I once tried to leave my house, then at me life hurled
A person I didn't know, so I ran inside and into a ball I curled.

I can get into any college I want, but choose to do online,
Because I'm pretty sure I'm allergic to the sunshine!
Besides it's when I'm with my family that I'm on cloud nine.

Now that I'm out I know what to do, I won't be a fool,
I'll marry my cousin and homeschool because it's cool.
Now I ask you, how did you survive public school?
